

While watching Fear Factor on NBC, Monday 8:00pm 9/27/04 a commercial was shown for an upcoming movie "The Grudge". The preview for this movie was outright terrifying and it was shown before 8:30pm. I am disappointed with NBC for allowing such a horrific preview to be shown during a popular pre-teen TV show.

It is time for the FCC to get serious about movie previews and trailers shown on the major television networks. Too many times the previews contain graphic content or horrific scenes.
